Will also bu hours. Six thousand five hundred bales; of spot cotton changed hands in a single transaction, being purchased by Kauffman & Runge of P. J. Willis & Bro., the negotiation being conducted through C. O. Bingham, the well known broker. This transaction represents about $325,-

000. The total sales of spot cotton in this market to-day aggregate of fully $400,000. This is the largest single day's sales in the history of the cotton trade of Texas and reduces the amount of cotton in the city for sale in first hands to something like 5000 bales which is less than for any previous year at this season. The total stock of Galveston is 31,556 bales, inclusive of the cotton in the compresses and on ship board, only 5000 bales of which are being offered for sale.

Houston's present stock is 13,000, shows 1500 of which is for sale in the bands These figures demonstrat that the present season has been remarkable for the quick movement of cotton. If the sales continue at the present rate the common season will practically come to a close on
